PROJECTS

Creightone.com

I utilized my skills with HTML and CSS to develop my own online portfolio where I can better showcase my work.

July 2023 – current

DF Language Translator

I wrote some software using Java and the Swing toolkit that would translate English into a fictional language from the simulation game Dwarf Fortress. I am currently working on a browser version of the application in my free time.

April 2023 – current

USF Go-To

I worked with a team to create multiple low and high-fidelity wireframes in Balsamiq for a website that would promote events and blog posts related to health and wellness activities around USF's campus.
